HOW GOOD TO CENTER DOWN!

How good it is to center down!
 To sit quietly and see one's self pass by!
 The streets of our minds seethe with endless traffic;
 Our spirits resound with clashings, with noisy silences, While something deep within hungers and thirsts for the still moment and the resting lull.
 With full intensity we seek, ere the quiet passes, a fresh sense of order in our living;
 A direction, a strong sure purpose that will structure our confusion and bring meaning in our chaos.
 We look at ourselves in this waiting moment—the kinds of people we are.
 The questions persist: what are we doing with our lives?—what are the motives that order our days?
 What is the end of our doings? Where are we trying to go?
 Where do we put the emphasis and where are our values focused?
 For what end do we make sacrifices? Where is my treasure and what do I love most in life?
 What do I hate most in life and to what am I true?
 Over and over the questions beat in upon the waiting moment.
 As we listen, floating up through all the jangling echoes of our turbulence, there is a sound of another kind—
 A deeper note which only the stillness of the heart makes clear.
 It moves directly to the core of our being. Our questions are answered.
 Our spirits refreshed, and we move back into the traffic of our daily round
 With the peace of the Eternal in our step.
 How good it is to center down!

—Howard Thurman

JULY 21 "Perspectives on Jesus" Joyce Besser

Our three-part series on the person of Jesus continues today. The writings of Richard Rohr will provide a lens through which we can explore who this Jesus was and is. Drawing on scripture, history, and spiritual practice, Rohr articulates a transformative view of Jesus Christ as a portrait of God's constant, unfolding work in the world. "God loves things by becoming them," he writes, and Jesus' life was meant to declare that humanity has never been separate from God—except by its own negative choice. When we recover this fundamental truth, faith becomes less about proving Jesus was God, and more about learning to recognize the Creator's presence all around us, and in everyone we meet.
